

School Community Liaison

“Someone to turn to for help”

School Liaisons are a team of social service professionals working in all the school districts of Ashland County. the goals of these services include:

- increase school attendance
- enhance coping skills of children
- respond to crisis in the school
- increase partnerships between families and schools
- provide easier access to community supports and resources
- increase academic performance and promote healthy personal development

Partnerships

The Mental Health and Recovery Board of Ashland County has partnered with the Ashland County Public School District and Appleseed Community Mental Health Center to provide these services to children and families throughout the county.

What We Do

We strengthen the capacity of families to support children's learning by forging strong home/school/community partnerships to help remove any and all barriers that interfere with educational achievement.

We link students and families with the necessary resources which will assist them in dealing with the social, emotional, medical, economic, and/or any other community barriers that may be interfering with learning.

"I feel that the services the liaisons are providing are essential in our school system today. The knowledge they provide about services which are available in the community and the contacts they make assures me that more children and families are having their needs met." -- teacher

"We were new to the area and had many needs. We would have truly suffered without the liaison's help." --parent

How to Contact Us:

The Liaison is a support for teachers, parents, and students. If you don't know who your liaison is ask your principal or guidance counselor..

About Our Funding

The School Liaison Program is provided by the Mental Health & Recovery Board of Ashland County and Ashland County Citizens through the passage of the Mental Health and Recovery Levy.
